

PHYSICAL THERAPY

Your students' success is our priority

The entry-level Doctor of Physical Therapy (DPT) program at A.T. Still University (ATSU) is a three-year, full-time residential program designed for individuals without a prior physical therapy degree. Offered at the Mesa, Arizona campus, the program includes clinical internships and evidence-based curriculum with a focus on treating the whole person. By maintaining small class sizes—limited to 62 students—the program ensures personalized instruction and close faculty mentorship, setting the foundation for student success in the field.

We are excited to offer priority consideration for your students interested in pursuing a career in physical therapy. This partnership ensures your students are not only prioritized but also supported through a fast review process. While students still apply through PTCAS, their applications are immediately reviewed by admissions upon receipt, rather than being placed in a queue. By joining forces with ATSU, you can help foster the next generation of compassionate, skilled physical therapists—ensuring your institution's legacy of excellence in the healthcare field.

PRIORITY CONSIDERATION BENEFITS

As a priority partner, students meeting all requirements enjoy the exclusive benefit of reserved interview seats in the program.

HOW TO APPLY FOR PRIORITY CONSIDERATION:

Students are invited to submit a letter of intent along with their PTCAS application.

Ensure all admissions requirements are met.
