

Demonstrate Your Knowledge and Expertise with Digital Badges in AT

If you're an athletic trainer looking for a way to visually showcase your AT training and competencies, then digital badges from A.T. Still University (ATSU) are the perfect solution!

Each completed course through ATSU's Athletic Training Department results in earning a digital badge which can then be shared as a signal of success across your social networks or in your email signature.

What's more, any of the 24 digital badges earned count toward the completion of a master's or doctoral degree! Multiple accumulated courses within a concentration area will also grant you a graduate certificate/micro-credential in clinical decision-making, rehabilitation, orthopaedics, athletic training education, or sports neurology and concussion. Whatever your desired commitment level, ATSU has flexible options to meet you where you're AT!

GAIN A VISUAL REPRESENTATION OF YOUR AT PROWESS WITH EACH COMPLETED COURSE!

WHY CHOOSE ATSU FOR YOUR DIGITAL BADGES?

When you go with ATSU for AT digital badges, you're choosing a curriculum that...

- Is taught by industry-renowned faculty who are experts in the AT field
- Can be completed entirely online, on your schedule
- Requires 8-10 hours per week of coursework
- Has four start dates per year, and can be completed in just 10 weeks
- Progresses you toward earning a master's or doctorate in athletic training or any of the graduate certificates offered through advanced standing
- Is offered in a wide range of areas relevant to ATs: clinical decision-making, rehabilitation, orthopaedics, leadership and education, or sports neurology and concussion
- Can be displayed digitally on websites, social media, email signatures, résumés/CVs, and portfolios as a visual accumulation of AT knowledge and skills
- Has no expiration date and contains metadata to provide context for competencies earned

Earning an AT digital badge from ATSU is the next step you need to set yourself apart as an athletic trainer. Whatever your specialty area, ATSU has options for you that can be completed on your timeline.
